In Loving Memory of Chris Tracey

Early Bird Dinner Theatre is sad to report the loss of one of our dearest actors. Chris Tracey, a dynamic powerhouse of an actress, performed for thousands of patrons at the theatre for over 15 years.

Chris passed away on Thursday, June 5, 2008 after a long battle with cancer. She fought a heroic battle and was comforted by her family and closest friends.

Chris entertained audiences in innumerable shows over the years, always displaying her passion for her craft, her love of life and her classic sense of humor.

Chris maintained close contact with Producer, Ed Fletcher; Director, Robin New; actress and closest friend, Gail Scott and other members of her theatre family throughout her illness. She was last seen onstage in the role of Ouiser in "Steel Magnolias" in April 2007.

Early Bird Dinner Theatre is planning a Celebration of Life in honor of Chris. For more information regarding date and time, please call 727-446-5898.

Family and friends are asking that in lieu of flowers, donations to the charity of your choice can be made in the name of Christina McNeill Tracey.
